

MC3 DANIAN C. DOUGLAS

Mass Communication Specialist Petty Officer Third Class Danian C. Douglas migrated to New York from Trinidad in 1995 and worked as a manager in both the high-rise construction and promotional marketing industries before enlisting into the U.S. Navy in September, 2008.

His diligent work ethics, matured responsibility and ability to take initiative while performing his duties with minimal supervision as an undesignated crewmember onboard a Yard Patrol craft at the U.S. Naval Academy, resulted in winning the USNA's Blue Jacket Sailor of the Quarter and Blue Jacket Sailor of the Year awards in 2009.

After converting into the mass communication (MC) rating, he was transferred to the command's Public Affairs Office in 2011 where he significantly contributed to the multi-media coverage of the USNA's Summer Seminar and Science, Technology, Engineering and Math Camp, as well as Plebe Summer programs - producing more than 20,000 photos and more than 50 newspaper articles and video stories.

He recently completed the Digital Multimedia Course at the Defense Information School and is currently serving as a staff member for the Center for Service Support Navy Detachment, serving in the capacity of barracks manager and professional development mentor for 117 MC "A" school sailors, until he is assigned to his next command.

Updated: 22 February 2013