

Richard Radstone

Photographer • Documentary Film Maker • Educator

With over 30-years of photographic, instructing and lecturing experience, Richard Radstone is a frequent choice of global and national institutions, advertisers, corporations, publishers and individuals who seek creative works, consulting and educational programs. He has developed curriculum, guided discussions and conducted seminars for many schools and organizations and is constantly active in mentoring as list of emerging and established creative talent. His mission is constant, to foster individualized artistic point-of-view while strengthening technical expertise and business acumen.

Additionally, he has served on and directed many task forces for both the Regional and National boards of the APA (American Photographic Artists) as well as other photographic organizations. He is a recognized contributing author to photographic magazines and authors several creative and photographic blogs.

An experienced educator, he has an innate ability to connect with those he works with in a way that inspires, informs and enlightens. The warmth of his personality and his sense of humor creates an atmosphere that allows those he works with to open up and be receptive to new information and to push their own ability. He knows his subject and is truly interested in elevating the level of photography that his students can produce. He has presented for many organizations and institutions on a range of subjects. Whether it's APA's Successful Emerging Photographer program, an intimate discussion or a lecture hall presentation, Richard always holds his audience's interest and attention.

Richard has won numerous awards and has recently begun expanding into documentary, production and a series of fine art/publishing projects. Richard resides in Los Angeles with his wife and daughter. To stay clear and fresh he can often be found mountain biking the trails that surround the Los Angeles area. To quote, "Riding is my 4th love, you'll have to guess the 1, 2 and 3."
